Honorable Muriel-Theresa Pitney, Clerk of Court
Supreme Court of Virginia
P.O. Box 1315
100 North Ninth Street
Richmond, VA 23219-1315

Re: Decennial Redistricting Pursuant to the Constitution of Virginia, art. II, §§ 6 to 6-A, and Virginia Code § 30-399

Dear Ms. Pitney:

Pursuant to the Court's Rules and Procedures for Implementing the Requirements of Article II, Section 6-A of the Constitution of Virginia, I write on behalf of Frederick County and its Board of Supervisors (collectively, "Frederick County" or "the County") regarding the state legislative and congressional redistricting proceeding currently pending before the Court. Frederick County has diligently pursued its local magisterial district redistricting, with a Board of Supervisors public hearing on the County's proposed redistricting scheduled for December 8, 2021. This is in anticipation of the adoption of the proposed redistricting that same evening, as the proposed redistricting responds to public comments the Board of Supervisors received on November 8, regarding a prior version of the County's proposed redistricting.

The County's specific concern with the state legislative and congressional redistricting relates to geographic correspondence between state legislative and congressional districts and local magisterial districts and precincts. The County respectfully requests that, based on its modest population size, the County not be split between congressional or State Senate districts and, to the extent possible, the House of Delegates district lines conform to the precinct and magisterial district lines that the County ultimately adopts. Doing so would avoid the potential for split precincts. It would also avoid the possibility that residents of a County magisterial district – the median 2020 population of a magisterial district in Frederick County is just 15,236 – would be split between multiple state legislative and/or congressional districts.

Toward this end, I am including with this letter copies of the proposed County-wide map and individual maps of the proposed magisterial districts. Both the County-wide map and the individual magisterial district maps show the constituent precincts. I am also including a copy of the County's proposed redistricting ordinance, which includes text descriptions of the boundaries of the proposed magisterial districts and precincts.

In particular, I note that, in the state legislative redistricting following the 2010 Census, despite the combined population of Frederick County and the City of Winchester (which the County wholly surrounds) being just 104,508, a total that was not that much more than the target population for a single House of Delegates district, the County was divided among three House of Delegates districts. Two of those districts extend from the east into the eastern portion of the County, into some of the highest growth areas of the County.

Consequently, in undertaking the current redistricting exercise, the existing House of Delegates district lines did not provide a viable rubric for the local magisterial district redistricting. In this regard, I note that, in all or almost all of the draft maps prepared by the consultants to the Virginia Redistricting Commission, the maps divided the County between only two House of Delegates districts. The County proceeded with its redistricting process in anticipation of the County being divided between only two House of Delegates districts.

I further note that, based on the median 2020 population of 15,236 for the County's magisterial districts, the population of four magisterial districts, plus the City of Winchester's population of 28,120, would total 89,064. This would represent almost the ideal size for a House of Delegates district, being just 3.2% over the target size of 86,314. Therefore, the County believes that four intact County magisterial districts, plus the City of Winchester, could constitute a single House of Delegates district, at worst requiring perhaps the placement of just a single precinct from them into the one adjacent House of Delegates district that could include the rest of the County. The County respectfully submits that there is no need for a more radical division of the County among House of Delegates districts.

The County can provide to the Court and its Special Masters further information regarding the County's proposed magisterial districts and precincts, including the listing of census blocks comprising each, upon request to the undersigned County Attorney. The County very much appreciates the Court's consideration of the County's concerns.

Respectfully submitted,

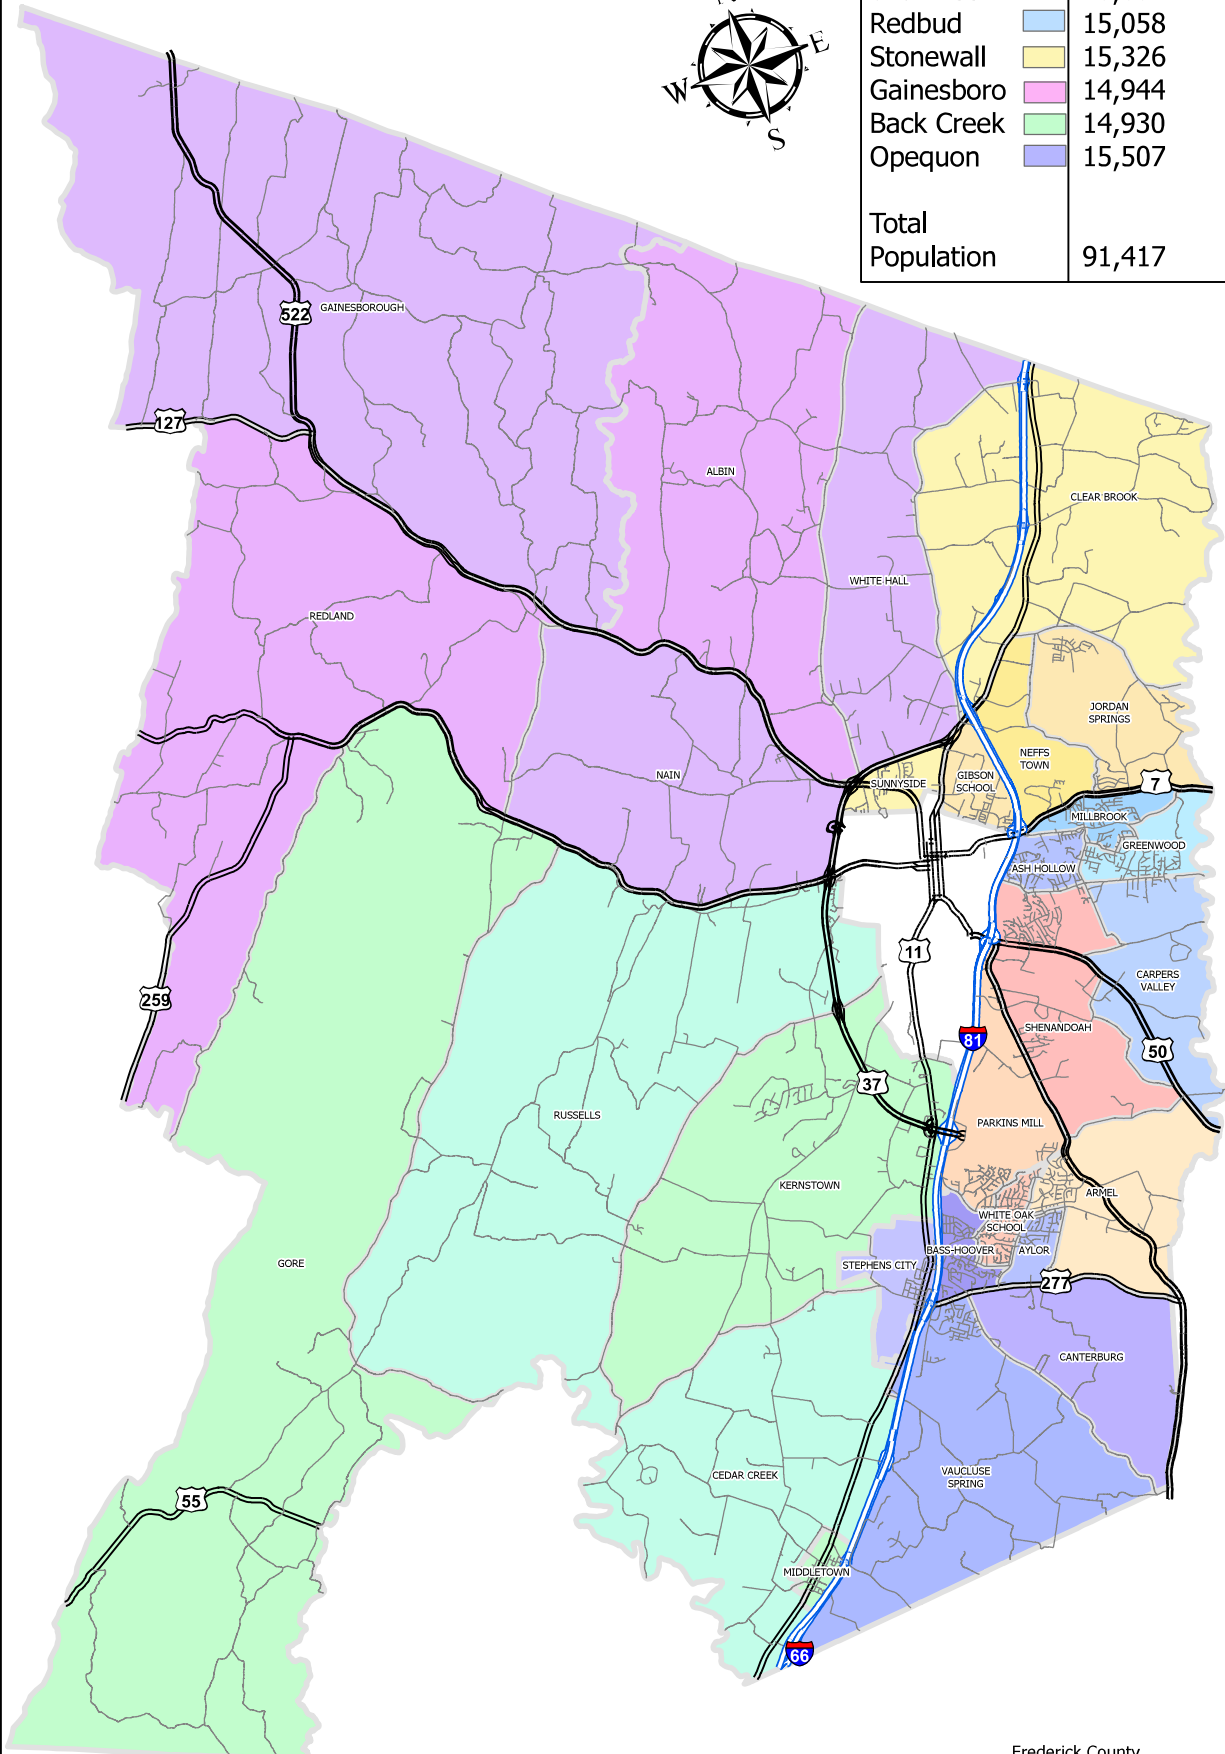

Roderick B. Williams
County Attorney
